Act Signed By President
Changes Law

WASHINGTON, March 5—(UP)—A flood of applications for loans under the administration's new housing program prompted officials of the Federal Housing Administration today to predict a general upturn in residential and apartment building this Summer.

During the week ending Feb. 26, for the first time in 1938, the value of mortgages on small dwelling which the agency selected for appraisal exceeded the value for the same week last year.

Officials reported that the volume of applications for loans coming into private lending institutions is nearing last year's peak, with the seasonal increase that comes with Summer building weather well in the future.

Under the provision of the new housing law which permits loans for modernization and repair and for construction of small homes costing less than $2,500, district officers report "tremendous" activity.

Applications Pleasing
Similarly, preliminary reports on loan applications for construction of multi-dwelling apartments are "highly satisfactory," officials said.

Nearly $30,000,000 in loans for large scale projects have been submitted for approval, the F. H. A. announced.

Under the new act approved by President Roosevelt Feb. 3, the F. H. A. can insure loans for home construction of $6,000 or less where the down payment is only 10 percent. The F. H. A. makes no loans itself but insures loans made by banks and other private lending institutions.

Under various plans, the administration can insure loans up to $5,000,000 for construction of group housing development and up to $10,000 for repairs on existing structures.

Several districts have reported that the demand for loans under the program has been so great that the F. H. A. has been unable to furnish enough application blanks. Three Detroit banks reported they had more activity in the first 10 days under the new set-up than during the entire first four months of the old housing plan.

Competition Keen
Officials said some areas reported such keen competition among lenders for the loan business that some of the banks have reduced their discount (interest) rates below the 5 percent maximum provided in the act.

To push its program, the F. H. A. plans to appoint local housing chairmen in 5,000 communities to promote the drive for home building. Citizens in approximately 3,500 cities are now at work in that capacity, Administrator Stewart McDonald said.

Jilted Woman Receives Jury's Verdict for Damages Against Episcopal Rector

STUEBENVILLE, March 5—(UP)—Counsel for Rev. Harold C. Zeis made plans today, to upset a jury verdict awarding $10,000 to Mrs. Cora Lillian Burnham in her $100,000 heart balm suit against the Episcopal rector.

A rural jury of 12 men brought in its decision after deliberating four hours over the arguments and testimony presented during the four-day trial in federal court.

Defense Attorney John D. Gardner immediately announced he would ask a new trial and failing that, would carry the case to the U. S. circuit court of appeals. He described the verdict as "absolutely against the weight of the evidence." Harley S. Cook, counsel for Mrs. Burnham, said he was "very appreciative and quite satisfied."

Neither in Court
Neither the plaintiff nor defendant was in court when the verdict was returned. Mrs. Burnham, 43, had departed for New York city and the rector remained at home with his wife, the former Mrs. Emma Sharpe, whom he married in 1936 shortly after termination of his courtship with Mrs. Burnham.

Mrs. Burnham contended the rector courted her for eight years from the date of their first meeting in Bellefontaine in 1927 when he was a student "supply pastor" until 1935. She presented numerous love letters he allegedly wrote to her. The plaintiff said he finally demanded his freedom in 1935 telling her, "I'm going to marry Emma Sharpe. I'm going to hobnob with success."

Mrs. Sharpe, who is the widow of a former steel manufacturer, is director of a Steubenville bank.

Married When 18
Mrs. Burnham, was married when she was 18 to a Charles Burnham and was divorced shortly before she met the rector.

HOODED BANDIT
ROBS TWO MORE
OHIOANS OF $70

FINDLAY, March 5—(UP)—A hooded bandit who has committed a score of robberies in northwestern Ohio in the last six months forced two gasoline station attendants to take off their trousers last night while he robbed them of $70.

The holdup victims were Leslie Yoximer, 20, and Richard McMahon, 24, attendants of a suburban station.

The loot included $17.50 in Yoximer's trousers, but the trousers and money were recovered later in a garage nearby.

A customer entered while the robbery was in progress and was forced to take off his shoes.

City Councilman Clarence Jackson was driving by the station at the time and saw the trouserless attendants facing the robber. Jackson drove a block and telephoned police.

The bandit wore a burlap sack over his head and had no automobile. It was the first time he had committed a holdup here.

CITY OFFICIALS CONFER WITH LOGAN CONTRACTOR

City officials and William Loomis, of Logan, successful bidder on the disposal plant construction, met at the city building, Saturday morning, to sign the construction contract.

The firm's bid on the plant, with omissions made to bring it within the amount of funds available, amounts to $138,169.15. The city will issue $15,000 worth of bonds to take care of the balance of the contract.

ITINERANT DIES OF SHOCK AFTER RAIL ACCIDENT

Charles Moore, 59, Hurt Thursday; Funeral To Be Monday

Shock that followed amputation of his right leg below the knee caused death at 5:25 p. m. Friday of Charles Moore, 59, Portsmouth itinerant. Death came in Berger hospital where he had been a patient since Thursday afternoon.

Mr. Moore was riding a Norfolk and Western freight train which was shifting in the Circleville yards. He fell under a car while he was trying to alight, railroad men said.

Amputation of the leg was found necessary.

Mr. Moore, a native of Jackson Furnace, Scioto county, was a son of William S. and Emma Moore. During the last several years he had been traveling about the country as an umbrella repairman.

He is survived by a brother, John, of Portsmouth, and a sister, Mrs. Rachel Slack, of South Webster.

The funeral will be Monday afternoon in the Albaugh chapel, the Rev. Robert T. Kelsey officiating. Burial will be in Forest cemetery.

SECOND CONTACT WITH ABDUCTORS OF BOY SOUGHT

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., March 5—(UP)—Intermediaries for Murray Levine sought another rendezvous today with the kidnapers of his 12-year-old son, Peter.

The ransom — $30,000 — was ready, but the harassed father, an attorney, revealed that one attempt to deliver it and recover his son had failed. An intermediary was unable to contact the abductors at a rendezvous somewhere in New York City, of which New Rochelle is a suburb.

For the first time since Peter vanished nine days ago on his way home from school, Levine confirmed reports that he had received several notes from the kidnapers. He telephoned the office of Detective Lieutenant George Reibenberger, and dictated this statement:

"The last note received by me demanded $30,000. That amount is ready. The go-between directed by that note tried very hard to deliver the money but failed. He is still willing to act and so am I.

"I am sure that any other reliable person selected by the holders of my boy would also be willing to act."

SENATOR ASKS MORGAN TO QUIT JOB WITH T.V.A.

"CHAIRMAN IS HINDRANCE"

Nebraska Solon Fights For Commission Probe

WASHINGTON, March 5—(UP)—Sen. George W. Norris, Ind., Neb., "father" of the Tennessee Valley Authority and a supporter of most New Deal policies, accused T. V. A. Chairman Arthur E. Morgan today of "hindering" the agency's program. Norris suggested that Morgan resign.

Norris cast his lot in the T.V.A. directors' "feud" with majority members David E. Lilienthal and Harcourt A. Morgan, by bitterly denouncing the chairman as a "bad boy who won't play because he has not had his own way."

Pointing out that there had been internal disagreement in the T. V. A. since the reappointment of Lilienthal in 1936, Norris said:

"Previous to that time every decision of the board was unanimous. Chairman Morgan threatened to resign if Mr. Lilienthal was reappointed. Unfortunately, he has not resigned."

Fair Probe Asked
"A fair investigation will show that the only hindrance that the T. V. A. has had is its chairman."

Norris' attack followed President Roosevelt's authorization for publication of a statement by the majority T. V. A. members assailing the chairman as pursuing a policy of "rule or ruin." The statement was dated Jan. 18, before Chairman Morgan's recent denunciation of his co-directors and request for a congressional inquiry.

Lilienthal and H. A. Morgan suggested that Chairman Morgan quit because they no longer could work with him.

Recognized by F. D.
President Roosevelt released the statement without comment. But it was the first time that he had taken public cognizance of the intra-directorate T. V. A. fight.

The circumstances, combined with Norris' support of the majority directors, led observers to interpret the President's move as an unvoiced request that Chairman Morgan resign.

STATE HYGIENIST PLANS VISIT TO CIRCLEVILLE

Miss Eleanor Graul, hygienist of the state department of health, will come to Circleville, Monday afternoon, to open the dental health education program planned for the city and county. City schools will be the first visited.

The educational program is limited to the first six grades of schools. Adult programs will be presented before interested organizations.

Mother Will Give Son Her Eye

A NORTH WALES, Pa., mother, known for the beauty of her blue eyes, will sacrifice one of them in an attempt to save the sight of her baby son. The mother is Mrs. Irene Lavery, formerly of Providence, R. I. The infant son is Roger Lavery, 2, the beautiful child shown above. A New York specialist soon will transplant the cornea of one of Mrs. Lavery's eyes to the right eye of her child. Roger lost the sight of his right eye following measles and pneumonia. His left eye was affected but an operation prevented him from becoming totally blind. Specialists told the mother that the left eye would give only temporary sight and a new cornea was needed for the right one to prevent permanent blindness. Another New York eye specialist, internationally known, suggested the possibility of avoiding the mother's sacrifice by transfer of the cornea from the eye of a newly-dead child to the afflicted eye of the Lavery boy. For ethical reasons, he said his suggestion must be anonymous.

Father Forgives Youth For Killing His Mother

CHICAGO, March 5—(UP)—Theodore Danielson, who thought he had been bringing up a musical genius, decided today to forgive his son for killing his mother.

Danielson interviewed his 15 year old son, Theodore, Jr., in jail last night. Teddy told him that he had killed his mother with a bread knife. Father and son wept together and the father listened to the boy's story, his arms around him.

"I'm still your friend," the father said. "Keep your chin up. You're all I have left."

To police, Danielson said: "He has a very quick temper. We never spanked him."

Teddy played the piano well and his teachers called him an "embryonic genius." Mrs. Danielson, who also played the piano well, made him practice two hours daily.

Teddy killed her Thursday. She was making a cherry pie in the kitchen. He came in. She had learned that he hadn't been to school for two weeks. She reprimanded him and he picked up the bread knife off the table and ran it into her throat. He took $5 and her jewelry from his mother's purse and fled. Police arrested him yesterday.

Teddy told police that he killed his mother because she slapped him and scratched his cheek and seemed about to slap him again. Danielson refused to believe the story. Police showed him the boy's confession. He demanded to hear it from his son's lips. Police arranged the interview and he was convinced.

TWO AUTO DRIVERS FINED $10, COSTS AS VIOLATORS

Two motorists were arrested by H. W. Anderson, state patrolman, Friday, and assessed fines of $10 and costs each in B. T. Hedges' justice of peace court.

Ward Cross, Circleville Route 2, was fined for driving with insufficient brakes. Charles T. Brown, E. Mound street, was fined for failure to stop for a sign at the Westfall road and Route 22. Both arranged to pay their accounts.

WATER RECEDES LEAVING BODIES IN MUCK, DEBRIS

Troops Called To Watch For Looters In Many Stricken Areas

ANOTHER STORM FEARED

Hundreds Isolated After Homes Are Wrecked

LOS ANGELES, March 5—(UP)—Looting and isolation, consequent to a devastating flood, were reported today from a dozen communities in southern California. The toll was estimated at 126 dead, 100 missing, and $25,000,000 in property damage. Rescuers continued to dig bodies from the muck and debris as the flood waters receded.

People here were terrorized for a time last night when thunder boomed across San Bernardino mountain and rain began to fall again. A thousand persons who had returned to their half-flooded homes, fled back to the municipal auditorium where they had been refugees for two days and nights.

Reports of a new storm discouraged the 3,000,000 persons in the vast flood-stricken area, where almost a foot of water fell in six days, but the weather bureau here broadcast reassuring reports that the storm was local, and that today's forecast was "clear weather."

One of the most desolate areas today was San Bernardino, a city in the foothills 60 miles east of here, where 30 persons were drowned, many were missing and hundreds were still stranded.

Looters Hunted
Looters were at work in several sections of the flood area. A company of National Guardsmen patrolled Anaheim, a town southeast of here which was deluged by an overflow of the Santa Ana river, after looters smashed doors of liquor stores and helped themselves to the stocks.

"Rowboat Pirates," mostly youths, were paddling about in small boats leisurely looting houses in the Santa Monica area from which the residents had fled. Police had orders to shoot looters on sight, but none had been reported killed although five suspected looters were under arrest. Citizens formed vigilante groups in some places to deal with looters.

Flood waters, which swept down from the mountains across the great natural basin about Los Angeles, were passing out to the ocean, leaving a ravaged area of 30,000 square miles. It was the worst flood disaster in the history of southern California. There were more than 100 towns in the stricken area, and metropolitan Los Angeles was hard hit, the loss there being 13 dead and $3,000,000 damage to streets and bridges.

New Perils Created
The draining waters continued to create new perils. At Claremont, Calif., today, a form of martial law was in force while 400 men worked on the levees trying to stem the flow of water near the mouth of San Antonio canyon. A hundred families were isolated near eastern Claremont, where the San Antonio creek left its banks, changed its course and left many persons isolated on an island.

The Red Cross ordered 300 blankets dropped from an airplane to the San Antonio canyon refugees.

The list of reported dead today was, by towns: Los Angeles, 13; Riverside, 13; Long Beach, 4; North Hollywood, Van Nuys area, 9; Ontario, 4; Glendale, 2; Santa Ana, 2; Anaheim, 2; Fullerton-Placentia area, 7; Lake Arrowhead, 2; Maywood, 1; Redlands, 2; San Bernardino, 30; Barstow-Ventura area, 3; Wildwood, 6; Ventura, 4; Camp Baldy, 3.

The fate of 500 persons isolated in mountain communities still was uncertain. Capt. Claude Morgan of the sheriff's aeronautic squad here, sent "aerial posers" out above the flood waters, equipped with a set of signals. Pilots of five planes looked for stranded communities and dropped this message:

"This airplane is from the sheriff's aerial posse of Los Angeles county. We can drop a limited (Continued on Page Eight)

VIENNA CLOSES UNIVERSITY TO HALT CLASHES

VIENNA, March 5.—(UP)— Authorities closed Vienna university today after serious clashes between Nazi and combined Catholic-Fatherland front students.

Students defied police, who separated them, and continued demonstrations—the police forming a buffer.

The disorder began when Catholic students paraded the university corridors, greeting each other with cries of "Heil Austria!" and singing anti-Nazi songs.

Nazis began parades of their own, shouting "Heil Hitler!" and singing their own songs.

Fights were started. Fatherland front men rushed to the aid of the Catholics and free for all fighting overflowed from the university building to the streets.

WALISA TRIAL IN HOG THEFT OPENS MONDAY

Roy Walisa, E. Corwin street, will go on trial in Common Pleas court Monday on a charge of receiving and concealing two hogs, alleged to have been stolen from D. C. Rader, Pickaway township farmer.

The trial, originally scheduled for Thursday, was postponed due to the illness of George E. Gerhardt, county prosecutor. Mr. Gerhardt, has been ill with a severe cold.

Although no witness list for the case had been filed Saturday, E. L. Crist, who will assist the prosecutor in the case, said the first witnesses to be called Monday would be Sheriff Charles Radcliff, Deputy Miller Fissell and Mr. Rader.

Five witnesses were called for Tuesday in a witness list filed Friday by counsel for Mr. Walisa. They were George Cook, 1013 McKinley avenue, Columbus; Melly Eblin, Liberty street, Chillicothe; Nolan Barnes, 513 S. Continued increase in the Pickaway county relief load was revealed Saturday when Wade Canter, commodity distributor, reported that 454 families received surplus products during February.

He said that a further increase is expected during the month.

VITT TO DEMAND FIGHTING CLUB AT CLEVELAND

NEW ORLEANS, La., March 5 (UP)—One of the many charges leveled against the Cleveland Indians in recent seasons was that they were merely out on the field going through the motions of playing. If a plan instituted today by the Tribe's new manager, Oscar Vitt, is successful there will be no basis for such allegations this year. In an effort to get his athletes to be "heads up" at all times, Vitt announced he would institute a system of cash bonuses for players who execute unusual plays during exhibition games this Spring. The Indian pilot believes that if his proteges start out playing brainy baseball they will continue it right through the championship season. Vitt used the system successful while piloting Newark in the International league a year ago. He explained that it "helped win plenty of close games."

Capital U. Cagers Claim Nine New Marks in 1938

COLUMBUS, March 5—No less than nine records were established by Capital university's 1938 cage machine which has just concluded a campaign of 12 wins and three losses for a third place position in the state-wide intercollegiate rankings of Ohio. Twelve victories were recorded, which ties the record made by the 1928-29 aggregation. The latter, however, lost six, three more than this year's squad. 4. When Capital ran up 68 points against Ohio Northern, it was the most points scored in one game. The former record was made in 1918-19 when Findlay was trounced 67 to 5. 5. COLUMBUS, March 5—(UP)—Winner of the Ohio scholastic basketball championships a year ago Hamilton and Columbus Upper Arlington, today had taken successfully the first hurdles in the path of the title defenses. Hamilton's strong team toyed with its city rival, Hamilton Catholic, in a headline game of a Class "A" tournament at Oxford as it gained a 35 to 10 triumph. Playing in the Central District Class "B" event at Westerville, Columbus Upper Arlington experienced little difficulty in grabbing a 39 to 17 decision from New Holland. Both the defending champions will be in action again tonight. Hamilton faces Franklin, a team which drew a first round bye, and if victorious will march into the district finals next week-end at Dayton. Columbus Upper Arlington's next foe will be Groveport, winner of 20 straight contests. Groveport on Top Groveport was hard pushed last night and had to come from behind to defeat Plain City 26 to 25 in an overtime contest. Toronto, which has been labeled a distinct threat for the state championship because of its brilliance of its ace forward, Tom Kinkead, took another step toward a place in the schoolboy classic when it defeated Mingo Junction 45 to 34. Canton McKinley, a semi-finalist in the state meet last season, featured play of teams in the Northeastern district when it gained an easy 28 to 12 victory at the expense of Minerva. Akron North, a former scholastic titlist, was triumphant over its city rival, South, 27 to 19 in another headline game in that meet. Waterloo, whose "Wonders" captured the state class "B" diamonds in 1934 and 1935, threw itself back into the limelight by advancing to the semi-finals of the Southeastern district tournament at Waverly. The little Lawrence county team was impressive as it turned back Beaver 36 to 29. Waterloo's opponent in the round of four will be New Boston the tourney favorite, which was forced to go into an overtime period to edge Decatur 41 to 38 last night. Another "B" team which threatened to be a championship factor was Graysville which downed Lewisville 36 to 16 in the Eastern District tournament at Marietta. The triumph was the team's 26th straight this season.

ARLINGTON FIVE TOO POWERFUL FOR N. HOLLAND

Jack Graf and Bobby Faught Prove Too Much For Bulldogs

HALFTIME SCORE 25-4

Pickaway, Ashville To Play Second Games

Upper Arlington had entirely too many guns for the battling New Holland Bulldogs, Friday evening, in a Central district class B game. The Bulldogs, No. 3 team in Pickaway county competition, went down, 16 to 39, under a barrage of field baskets. Arlington, paced by tall and able Bobby Faught and Jack Graf, started off to an early lead and by halftime was ahead 25-4. New Holland kept scrapping, but didn't have a change against the capable defending state titlists. Arlington's guards tied up the Holland forwards in real style, only one free throw being recorded by the Bulldog forwards. Davis, Ebert and Mossbarger accounted for 6, 5 and 4 points each. Graf with 15 and Faught with 11 led the scorers. Pickaway county's other two teams, Pickaway and Ashville, were scheduled for action in the second round Saturday afternoon, the Pirates against Utica and the Cowboys against Marysville. Pickaway was booked for the 3 o'clock contest and Ashville an hour later. The lineup: Arlington—39

Buddy Baer Kayoed By Finn In Seventh Round

NEW YORK, March 5.—(UP)—Before he stepped into the ring last night against Gunnar Barlund, rugged Finn, they were saying the some day Buddy Baer would become heavyweight champion—just like his brother Max.

But again the wise men of punch promenade were wrong. After a minute and 36 seconds of battling in the seventh round Buddy was carted out of the ring, the victim of a technical knockout and suddenly Barlund was being hailed as a prospective champion.

For one round, 242-pound Buddy, who had a tremendous physical advantage over the tough Finnish battler, looked as though he might fulfill the glowing predictions regarding his future. That was in the first round when he gave Barlund a bloody nose and opened a nasty cut over his left eye.

But after that Buddy was a sorry fighter and Referee Billy Cavanaugh who claimed he acted because Baer said "I've had enough," stopped the battle in the seventh round after "the Gunnar" had hit Buddy 20 straight smashes in the face without a return blow being struck.

It was the first time in 44 fights that young Baer had been stopped and the only glory left for him was that he still has yet to be floored.

The blows which Barlund landed in the last two rounds were strong enough to have felled an ordinary man but Buddy is not an ordinary man. He is a towering fellow almost impossible to knock over. The crowd of 8,565 persons gave Buddy a sound jeering when he left the ring and there were man cries of "just another bum like your brother Max."

Barlund, a bloody mess at the finish because he cuts easily scored repeatedly with sharp left hooks and jarring rights which Baer could not seem to avoid. In the sixth round, Buddy hit Barlund with a terrific right to the chin but Gunnar didn't even blink. The failure of that blow to register apparently broke Baer's heart because after that he was ineffective, even slipping to his knee for no count once.

In the seventh round Buddy realizing his only chance for victory was by a knockout, tried to force the fighting but Barlund slowed him down. Suddenly the Finn drove Baer to the ropes and began to hammer his head with rights and lefts. Buddy stood with his guard down, his back against the twine, and let Barlund hit him at will. After about 20 blows had been struck, Referee Cavanaugh waved Baer to his corner.

NEW ORLEANS, La., March 5.—(UP)—One of the many charges levied against the Cleveland Indians in recent seasons was that they were merely out on the field going through the motions of playing. Groveport on Top Groveport was hard pushed last night and had to come from behind to defeat Plain City 26 to 25 in an overtime contest.

Toronto, which has been labeled a distinct threat for the state championship because of its brilliance of its ace forward, Tom Kinkead, took another step toward a place in the schoolboy classic when it defeated Mingo Junction 45 to 34.

Canton McKinley, a semi-finalist in the state meet last season, featured play of teams in the Northeastern district when it gained an easy 28 to 12 victory at the expense of Minerva. Akron North, a former scholastic titlist, was triumphant over its city rival, South, 27 to 19 in another headline game in that meet.

Waterloo, whose "Wonders" captured the state class "B" diadems in 1934 and 1935, threw itself back into the limelight by advancing to the semi-finals of the Southeastern district tournament at Waverly. The little Lawrence county team was impressive as it turned back Beaver 36 to 29.

Waterloo's opponent in the round of four will be New Boston the tourney favorite, which was forced to go into an overtime period to edge Decatur 41 to 38 last night.

Another "B" team which threatened to be a championship factor was Graysville which downed Lewisville 36 to 16 in the Eastern District tournament at Marietta. The triumph was the team's 26th straight this season.

BUCKS MEET CHICAGO

COLUMBUS, March 5.—(UP)—Ohio State winds up its current basketball campaign here tonight when it meets the University of Chicago. The contest affords the Bucks an opportunity of clinching a first division berth in the Big Ten's final standing.

Mechling of Glenford, O. Weaver boosted it from 226 to 235.

6. Weaver also broke Mechling's 14.1 per game average, raising it to 15.7.

7. Captain Ray Heischman, when he swished 17 fielders for 34 points against Kenyon, established an all time high for an individual in one game.

8. When Captain Heischman chalked up his 21st point in the final game of the season, it was the 1019th the point scored by the Heischman family. Two brothers had preceded him as stars and captains of Capital quintets.

9. Weaver and Heischman, Capital's "scoring twins", totalled 436 points for the season, the highest total of any duo in Capital history. This was 29.1 point average for each game.

So all in all Coach Bernlohr's 1938 proteges can very aptly be termed "The record breakers." If you care to, you can add this record, at the 1938 quintet broke more records than any team in the history of Capital basketball.

NICK FRASCILLA TO END CAREER IN TONIGHT'S GO

COLUMBUS, March 5.—(UP)—

The leading individual scorer of Ohio's vast college basketball domain will be crowned tonight as the court campaign is brought to a close with three games involving state teams.

The point-making championship will go either to the sharp-shooting Nick Frascilla of Wooster or "Chuck" Chuckovits, the elusive University of Toledo ace.

Frascilla will be in action against Muskingum at Wooster; and Chuckovits is pitted against Loyola of Chicago at Toledo. In the only other game, Hiram tangles with Allegheny at Meadville, Pa.

Frascilla, winner of the scoring championship when a sophomore, now has a narrow lead over Chuckovits, the state's great point-getter a year ago. In 17 games Frascilla has scored 379 points. Chuckovits has 373 points for 19 contests.

For Frascilla tonight marks the conclusion of his college basketball career and regardless of whether he wins the scoring championship, he will go down in history as one of the finest players ever to be in the lineup of an Ohio team.

The Wooster star scored 296 points as a sophomore and 293 points last season. His consistent brilliance won him a place at forward on the United Press' all-conference quintets for three consecutive years.

Chuckovits is a junior and has another season of competition.

Jack Graf and Bobby Faught Prove Too Much For Bulldogs

HALFTIME SCORE 25-4

Pickaway, Ashville To Play Second Games

Upper Arlington had entirely too many guns for the battling New Holland Bulldogs, Friday evening, in a Central district class B game. The Bulldogs, No. 3 team in Pickaway county competition, went down, 16 to 39, under a barrage of field baskets.

Arlington, paced by tall and able Bobby Faught and Jack Graf, started off to an early lead and by halftime was ahead 25-4.

New Holland kept scrapping, but didn't have a change against the capable defending state titlists.

Arlington's guards tied up the Holland forwards in real style, only one free throw being recorded by the Bulldog forwards. Davis, Ebert and Mossbarger accounted for 6, 5 and 4 points each. Graf with 15 and Faught with 11 led the scorers.

Pickaway county's other two teams, Pickaway and Ashville, were scheduled for action in the second round Saturday afternoon, the Pirates against Utica and the Cowboys against Marysville. Pickaway was booked for the 3 o'clock contest and Ashville an hour later.

Buddy Baer Kayoed By Finn In Seventh Round

NEW YORK, March 5.—(UP)—Before he stepped into the ring last night against Gunnar Barlund, rugged Finn, they were saying that some day Buddy Baer would become heavyweight champion—just like his brother Max.

But again the wise men of punch promenade were wrong. After a minute and 36 seconds of battling in the seventh round Buddy was carted out of the ring, the victim of a technical knock-out, and suddenly Barlund was being hailed as a prospective champion.

For one round, 242-pound Buddy, who had a tremendous physical advantage over the tough Finnish battler, looked as though he might fulfill the glowing predictions.

Regarding his future. That was in the first round when he gave Barlund a bloody nose and opened a nasty cut over his left eye.

But after that Buddy was a sorry fighter and Referee Billy Cavanaugh who claimed he acted because Baer said "I've had enough," stopped the battle in the seventh round after "the Gunnar" had hit Buddy 20 straight smashes in the face without a return blow being struck.

It was the first time in 44 fights that young Baer had been stopped and the only glory left for him was that he still has yet to be floored.

The blows which Barlund landed in the last two rounds were strong enough to have felled an ordinary man but Buddy is not an ordinary man. He is a towering fellow almost impossible to knock over.

The crowd of 8,565 persons gave

Buddy a sound jeering when he left the ring and there were murmurs of "just another bum like your brother Max."

Barlund, a bloody mess at finish because he cuts easily, scored repeatedly with sharp hooks and jarring rights which Baer could not seem to avoid. The sixth round, Buddy hit Barlund with a terrific right to the chin but Gunnar didn't even blink. The failure of that blow to register apparently broke Baer's heart because after that he was ineffective, even slipping to his knees no count once.

In the seventh round Buddy realized his only chance for victory was by a knockout, tried force the fighting but Barlund slowed him down. Suddenly Finn drove Baer to the ropes and began to hammer his head with rights and lefts. Buddy stood his guard down, his back against the twine, and let Barlund hit at will. After about 20 blows Baer had been struck, Referee Cavanaugh waved Baer to his corner.

"BRASS TACKS" ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL (The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for March 6 is Mark 6:1-13; the Golden Text being Acts 3:6, "Such as I have give I thee.")

THERE IS no accounting for Jesus of Nazareth on natural grounds. The Prophet Isaiah foretold that he would be as "a root out of dry ground." In all his life he never traveled further than his automobiles can carry us in a few hours, yet his name is spoken reverently over much of the earth. He attended no great schools, yet he has done more for the cause of education and enlightenment than all the scholars of the ages. His neighbors saw in him nothing unusual, yet the centuries are reckoned from his birth. He left no writing of which we know except once in the ground men tramped over, and yet more books have been written about him than about any other character in all history. All earthly tests and standards fail utterly to measure or account for him.

"The Carpenter"

His fellow townsmen of Nazareth, to whom he was but the village carpenter, could not reconcile what they feared he was with what they preferred to think he was. Their preconceived notions of him failed to explain the man they saw and heard in their synagogue, but they determined to stick by their opinions. They chose rather to do violence to him than to their own notions of him. "From whence hath this man these things? and what wisdom is this which is given unto him, that even such mighty works are wrought by his hands? Is not this the carpenter, the son of Mary, the brother of James, and Joseph, and of Juda, and Simon? And are not his sisters here with us? And they were offended at him." They stumbled over their own stubborn home-town prejudices which they admitted were inadequate to explain the carpenter whom once they hired to work for them, and to whom they now felt inferior and determined not to admit it.

The Unhonored Prophet

in the words, "He could there do no mighty work, save that he laid his hands upon a few sick folk, and healed them. And he marvelled because of their unbelief." And the world still marvels that those who knew him best, knew him least, and that the Nazareth whose name he has made famous should have treated him with such infamy.

Volunteers Enlisted

Far from discouraging Jesus' disciples, his rejection at Nazareth put fight into them and gave them determination to push his cause in other parts. "He called unto him the twelve, and began to send them forth by two and two; and gave them power over unclean spirits. And commanded them that they should take nothing for their journey, save a staff only; no scrip, no bread, no money in their purse. . . . And they went out and preached that men should repent." As his own power was spiritual and from above, so was their to be. As he gave Nazareth infinitely more than Nazareth gave him so they, going forth empty and penniless were to enrich the world. And so they did, because "he gave them power."

Serving With What We Have

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By the Rev. Alvin E. Bell And Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Mark 6:1-13.

Jesus came again to his home town of Nazareth and preached in the synagogue. His old friends were astonished at his wisdom, but refused to believe in him because, to them, he still was just the village carpenter.

Jesus rebuked their prejudice, saying, "A prophet is not without honor, but in his own country, and among his own kin, and in his own house." Their unbelief made further miracles among them impossible.

Far from discouraging Jesus' followers, this rejection fired them to serve him in other places and he called unto him the twelve and he gave them power and sent them out by two and two.

"He commanded them that they should take nothing for their journey, save a staff only; no scrip, no bread, no money, in their purse." He would provide for their needs as they went. (GOLDEN TEXT—Acts 3:6)

TEMPLE OFFERS NURSE'S DEGREE IN NEW SCHOOL

PHILADELPHIA (UP)—A new College of Nursing opens Feb. 9 at Temple University, officials have announced. Graduates will receive a Bachelor of Science degree.

The need for such a college was inspired by a desire of the university administration "to co-operate fully with the national movement to place nursing education on a sound economic and professional foundation," it was announced.

Dr. George E. Walk, dean of the university's Teachers College, will supervise the new school. He said the pre-nursing course of study would provide a cultural and scientific basis for professional work in nursing.

"For the young high school graduate there is an additional advantage of bridging the gap between the high school and the hospital work for which the student may be too young," Dean Walk said.

SYLVANIA URGED FOR MINNESOTA 154 YEARS AGO

ST. PAUL (UP)—Had Thomas Jefferson's ordinance of 1784 been realized for the government of the Northwest, Minnesota today would be known as Sylvania.

Jefferson's conception of the new Northwest territory, as drawn up three years previous to the passing of the Ordinance of 1787 which established the Northwest territory, was along somewhat different lines than was finally agreed upon, state historical society records show.

The names Jefferson wanted for the subdivisions of the territory were: Sylvania, Michigan, Metropotamia, Polypotamia, Polisapia, Assenisapia, and others. The states in that territory today bear the names of Minnesota, Indiana, Ohio, Illinois, Michigan, and Wisconsin.

These facts were brought out in connection with the Northwest territory celebration, marking the 150th anniversary of the passage of the Ordinance of 1787.

The Federal government plans to re-create in pageant form not only the session at which the ordinance was passed, but also the significant events which led up to it.

in the words, "He could there do no mighty work, save that he laid his hands upon a few sick folk, and healed them. And he marveled because of their unbelief." And the world still marvels that those who knew him best, knew him least, and that the Nazareth whose name he has made famous should have treated him with such infamy.

Volunteers Enlisted Far from discouraging Jesus' disciples, his rejection at Nazareth put fight into them and gave them determination to push his cause in other parts. "He called unto him the twelve, and began to send them forth by two and two; and gave them power over unclean spirits. And commanded them that they should take nothing for their journey, save a staff only; no scrip, no bread, no money in their purse. . . . And they went out and preached that men should repent." As his own power was spiritual and from above, so was their to be. As he gave Nazareth infinitely more than Nazareth gave him so they, going forth empty and penniless were to enrich the world. And so they did, because "he gave them power."

Serving With What We Have

Jesus came again to his home town of Nazareth and preached in the synagogue. His old friends were astonished at his wisdom, but refused to believe in him because, to them, he still was just the village carpenter.

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Jesus rebuked their prejudice, saying, "A prophet is not without honor, but in his own country, and among his own kin, and in his own house." Their unbelief made further miracles among them impossible.

Far from discouraging Jesus' followers, this rejection fired them to serve him in other places and he called unto him the twelve and he gave them power and sent them out by two and two.

"He commanded them that they should take nothing for their journey, save a staff only; no scrip, no bread, no money, in their purse." He would provide for their needs as they went. (GOLDEN TEXT—Acts 3:6)

TEMPLE OFFERS NURSE'S DEGREE IN NEW SCHOOL

PHILADELPHIA (UP)—A new College of Nursing opens Feb. 9 at Temple University, officials have announced. Graduates will receive a Bachelor of Science degree.

The need for such a college was inspired by a desire of the university administration "to co-operate fully with the national movement to place nursing education on a sound economic and professional foundation," it was announced.

Dr. George E. Walk, dean of the university's Teachers College, will supervise the new school. He said the pre-nursing course of study would provide a cultural and scientific basis for professional work in nursing.

"For the young high school graduate there is an additional advantage of bridging the gap between the high school and the hospital work for which the student may be too young," Dean Walk said.

Tag Sale Starts

Some "sign people" shy away from Friday, thinking it's a bad day to do most anything of importance, but Miss Marguerite Hoover, deputy registrar of auto license plates for Ashville territory, had for a beginning yesterday, Friday, a good enough day for a start. Up to 4 o'clock, afternoon, she had sold eight sets of plates to the following people:

Mrs. Ray Kuhn, Ray Kuhn, Russell Hedges, Benford Millar, Howard Whitehead, A. B. Cooper, W. C. Pontius and L. E. Jones. And according to the state registrar put 'em on your auto at once, no waiting until March 10. No one told us about this, we read the order.

Machines must be wearing new plates by April 1 and if not, it's jail sure. These road cops are getting thicker each day.

Mrs. Nellie Luckett sick for the last three weeks, is able to sit up and is slowly getting better. . . . Not nearly so many sick among the school children as there had been, no measles, scarlet fever or whooping cough reported here. Attendance at school good. The usual number of colds. . . . ### GENERAL MALADY

HERBERT Hoover at Geneva, Switzerland, asked for his opinion about what ails Europe, replies:

"I have found that there are a great many diagnosticians, but none of them has a remedy. They are all agreed that something is radically wrong, but they have no cure to offer for the malady. People themselves don't know how to treat the illness. Why ask me?"

They try remedies which turn out to be nostrums. They hire doctors who prove to be quacks. Modern civilization seems to be going through a general crisis and nobody knows yet what the outcome will be.

SEEING AMERICA

THE typical American tourist in a foreign land usually visits famous churches, historic castles, a museum or two and the shops and amusement places.

What do foreign travelers want to see in America? Many of them are content with a glimpse of New York City, Niagara Falls and Washington. Some go to Hollywood, home of moving pictures.

The travel desires of the Albanian princesses who have just come to the United States are to see Mrs. Roosevelt, Yellowstone National Park and a Girl Scout meeting. These wishes come well within the range of possibility and probably will produce as good an idea of America as most Americans have of Albania.

Many Americans know little about their own country, outside the county and state they live in. With all our jaunting about in recent years, we still have much to see before we really know the great land that is ours.

ALIEN LOYALTY

A DOLF HITLER has done one deed, anyway, that normal Americans can approve unanimously. That is his order for German citizens in the United States who belong to the Nazi organization, known as the Amerika-Deutsche Volksbund, to get out of it.

This is a favor to our country. We do not want, and should not have, people here owing and openly professing loyalty to a foreign type of government that is hostile to the principles of our government and people. Such conduct is not illegal, but is in very bad taste and breeds ill-will between our people and Germany.

But what shall be said of the American citizens who belong to that same organization, wearing the German Nazi uniform, professing Nazi principles, using the Nazi salute and practicing the Nazi goose-step? Such organizations exist in various American cities.

Their conduct is in worse taste than that of the German citizens referred to. It gives the appearance of divided loyalty, or alien loyalty, and does no good to anybody.

A friend taking boxing lessons says it's just his rearmament program.

'ROUND CIRCLEVILLE . Hour by Hour

PAGES from the Diary of an Antiquated Reporter:

Out and around the village at an early hour, meeting Bob Anderson among the first, and then Bud Harden who was collecting prizes to be distributed at the Sportsmen's dinner Wednesday evening. Peaked at the list and immediately decided to be present for that event, hoping to gather unto myself any one of a score of items I regard as necessary to my Summer peace of mind. Chatted with Bill Hamilton, who would like to make a trip to Florida, but can find no companion for the trip.

Started across Court street with Willie Morris and we were almost run down by a motorist who thought he was in a hurry. Don't remember just what the motorist said, but possibly that is just as well. Exchanged greetings with H. W. Plum and Educator Bob Terhune and then headed for the coffee shop to be practically insulted by Turney Weldon, who has one of the most infectious laughs I ever have heard. But personal remarks always are blunt at the Coffee Club, so I took Turney's jibe with a grin.

The Chamber of Commerce is lining up its program for the year and officers are seeking ideas. Here is a chance for you to uncover your pet idea. Why not outline your idea of a good project for the Chamber and send it to President Ed or Secretary Mack?

Took a short jaunt through the country and saw three farmers plowing in the rain. One of them with a walking plow, too. Later, Charlie Fullen dropped in to discuss building prospects for the Spring and then fishing. Seems to know about all the good spots within 20 miles of the village. He is a confirmed bait fisherman. I like artificial. So, verbal war was waged for a quarter hour, during which more fish of size were landed than I expect to get during two weeks next Spring up Michigan way. Prospects for building this year appear bright, what with reduced financing charges.

Noted at the Rotary club luncheon this week that only seven of the forty-eight men present did not wear spectacles. Learned shortly afterward from good authority that 90 percent of all adults wear or need glasses. All of which reminded me that maybe inspection of our schools would not be a bad idea. Isn't it entirely possible that due to old or inadequate lighting devices that undue strain is being placed on the eyes of many of our children. I have seen instruments that measure light anywhere and I think that one of them could be used to good advantage in all our school buildings.

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DEW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

PLANES MADE IN WICHITA

WASHINGTON — Newspaper headlines featured the news that Russian planes had made the spectacular hop for the Chinese army to bomb Japanese Formosa. Inside word received here by the Army and Navy, however, is that most of the planes were made in Wichita, Kansas, and had just arrived in China. Some were of other American makes previously purchased by China.

The pilots were not Russian, but French, British and American, each paid 400 pounds sterling per month, or $2,000. They made the Formosa round trip without losing a plane.

Addition of the Wichita planes is the reason for the most successful air attacks upon the Japanese Army.

NOTE—Foreign aviators are reported to be paid by Madame Chiang Kai-Shek, who is the daughter of Sun Yat-sen and inherited several millions. Until recently she personally has commanded the Chinese Air Force.

JUNE ADJOURNMENT

Barring surprise legislative demands by the President, Congress will be homeward bound by June 1 at the latest.

The House could wind up its unfinished work with time to spare by May 1. But the Senate, stalled by the anti-lynching filibuster, is a month behind schedule. However, its urge to shake the dust of the Capital is just as strong as in the house.

In both chambers the boys, facing highly troubled election waters, already are champing at the bit, and some have served notice that they will depart by May 1 regardless. One of these is Senate Leader Alben Barkley, who faces the re-election fight of his life.

The Kentuckian, aided by Vice President Garner, recently made a quiet canvas of the possibility of adjourning May 1. House leaders told them they could do it provided Roosevelt sent up no new legislation. But in the Senate, the earliest estimated quitting date was May 21.

This caused acute pangs of worry to Barkley. So Senate friends advised him to turn the reins over to Senate Pat Harrison, whom he defeated for the leadership. Pat is not up for re-election and is among the few not in a hurry to go home.

NO NEW LEGISLATION

The likelihood of Roosevelt's demanding new legislation this spring is remote.

He has done this the last three regular sessions, but this year he is as anxious to get rid of Congress as it is to go home.

The one possibility for a new legislative attack is on monopolies, but inside word now is that Roosevelt has changed his mind about immediate action and will recommend a study preparatory to drafting a bill for the new Congress next January.

To clear its boards, the House needs only to dispose of the tax and relief bills, the big navy measure, three big appropriation bills and the long-disputed wage-hour proposal.

With the exception of the last, there will be no trouble about any of these. But the outcome of the labor bill is most uncertain. It is still tied up in committee, and the longer it hangs there the smaller its chances of passage.

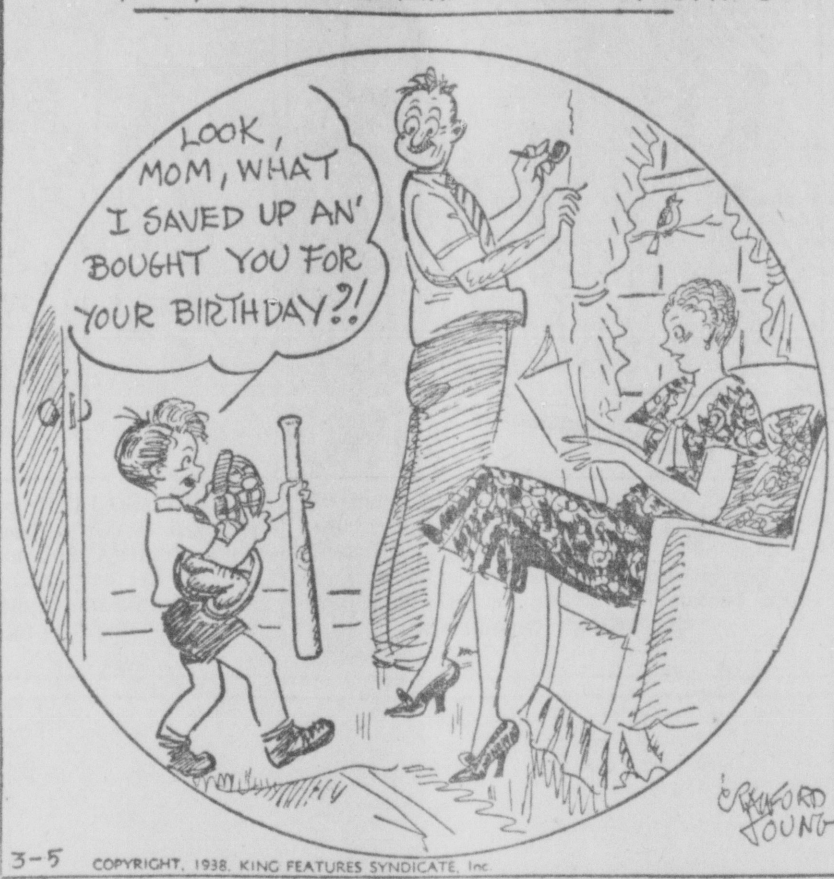

There is sure to be a hot Senate fight over the tax and relief bills, but with the House holding the whip hand they are apt to be in line with White House views.

How You Should Care for the New-Born Baby

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
THE YOUNG PARENTS of the first new baby are in for a host of doubts, fears and abysmal consciousness of lack of experience.

It seems such a fragile little thing and so helpless. Just what are we to do about taking care of it? Oh! about a thousand different things.

Well, it isn't quite as fragile as it looks, and although it does need a good deal of attention it will get along most of the time on its own.

Keep it fed, keep it clean, keep it aerated and keep it rested—that is about all there is to it.

How to keep it fed we will discuss tomorrow.

As for keeping it clean, the healthy baby should be bathed every day at the same hour. The most convenient time is about half an hour after mother's breakfast.

For the bath get:
1. Soap—pure and mild, castile.
2. Several soft towels.
3. A baby's bathtub or a dishpan or a washbowl.
4. Wash cloths—one for face, one for body.
5. Powder—in a dusting can, to prevent chafing.
6. Petroleum jelly—to use on sore parts of the skin.
7. Boric acid solution for eye wash.
8. A fine, soft hairbrush.
9. Apron for mother.
10. Cotton.
11. Pail or basket for dirty clothes.
12. Clean socks, diapers, hand, etc.
13. Table covered with clean

sheet, two chairs—one for mother, one for bathtub.

Scissors to cut toenails.

Temperature of the bath should be lukewarm, about 98 to 100 degrees. Always put the water in the tub before undressing the baby.

Always test the temperature of the water with your elbow before putting the baby in.

As the baby gets older, make the bath a little cooler.

The first month a sponge bath only should be given.

The sponges bath should last about five minutes. The tub bath about seven.

Never Leave Baby in Tub.

Always hold the baby while in the tub. Never leave it even if the Angel Gabriel is on the telephone.

Wash the eyes first by dipping a small piece of cotton in warm boric solution (to make a proper boric acid solution put a glassful—eight ounces—or water on to boil, then add a level teaspoonful of boric acid crystals, and continue boiling, stirring with a spoon until dissolved.)

Wash the nose by twisting a piece of cotton around a toothpick. THEN SLIP THE TOOTHPICK OFF and wash the nose by gently turning the end of the cotton around inside the nostrils.

Wash the ears gently, never pulling at them, one at a time, and dry.

Wash the head, then the arms and body, with soap and water, then the legs and buttocks.

Dry gently by dabbing it with a soft, dry towel.

Dust the powder into the skin folds. Dress and brush the hair, if any.

Sleep—A healthy, new-born baby should sleep nearly all the time except when it is being nursed or bathed. During the second and third months there should be eighteen to twenty hours of sleep every day.

Poems That Live

"ASK ME NO MORE"
From "The Princess"

Ask me no more: the moon may draw the sea;
The cloud may stoop from heaven, and take the shape,
With fold to fold, of mountain or of cape;
But O too fond, when have I answered thee?
Ask me no more.

Ask me no more: what answer shall I give?
I love not hollow cheek or faded eye;
Yet, O my friend, I will not have thee die!
Ask me no more, lest I should bid thee live;
As me no more.

Ask me no more: thy fate and mine are sealed;
I strive against the stream and all in vain;
Let the great river take me to the main.
No more, dear love, for at a touch I yield;
Ask me no more.

—Alfred Tennyson.

CHAPTER 44

"THEN, I put my little question to the chauffeur," M. Picon went on. "I want to be sure that he was not in the village, I say. Can he tell me something which will prove him to have been elsewhere? And he, the poor fool, who does not know Amer Picon, tells me of the flag that was at half-mast. He leaves me then only one thing to do. It is a hope, a chance, that he stopped the car at a point from which that tower is to be seen. And voilà! it comes true! I discover that he went there with his accomplice.

"Then worse, they both deny that they were out together. How foolish! Had they been innocent, why should they conceal it? A little scolding for an offense in the routine of the house, what is that? Nothing. And by denying it, they make it guilty. Oh yes, even this young man had his blunders.

"That then, mes amis, is the explanation of this mystery. You, unfortunately, all of you who tried to solve it, sought the impossible. You thought, as the murderer intended that you should think, about the manner in which someone could have escaped from the room after the screams and before your entry. That was foolish. It should have been evident at once to you that nobody could have escaped in that time. Then either he was still there, or the screaming had not been done at the time of the murder. And since he was not still there, voilà! the certainty was the latter. You see how simple, how logical, now that Papa Picon explains? But no—you do not reason so. You begin to think of the unnatural of creatures with wings. You should have known that always, my friends, always in such cases of a murder behind locked doors the explanation is a matter not of the means of escape, but of the time at which the crime was done. Ah, if we all drew the conclusions which murderers mean us to draw, what a happy time for murderers! But fortunately there are some who have a sense of logic!

"This man here, as you say, all the luck. Everything conspired to shift the blame onto other shoulders, and to confuse the investigators. There was Monsieur Strickland, the stepson, who would benefit so much, who had been in trouble and changed his name, who slept next door. There was the butler, already guilty of blackmail. There was the cure, who was not quite well in the head, and who arrives at the bedside so soon after the murder. And there was Monsieur Norris, who was also upstairs at the time. So many to be suspected! So much confusion. Surely he is lucky. But—fortunately there arrives Amer Picon, with his sense of logic. He is lucky no more. He and his accomplice are discovered. Voilà! C'est tout!"

Looking back on the moment at which M. Picon finished, I think that my first emotion was one of sympathy with Lord Simon. It must have been galling to him to see his card castle collapse, and the ironclad edifice of M. Picon take its place. He had worked so hard and conscientiously, that he deserved to have been successful. But no. The little foreigner was obviously congratulating himself. All doubt was now removed.

M. Picon had scarcely finished speaking, and was still smiling in self-congratulation, when Mgr. Smith unexpectedly began. "What you all seem to forget," he said, "is that the man who can be a spy, can also be a spider." At once I remembered all his mystic references to King Bruce, and things or people or facts that hang on threads, and I asked myself what abstruse wonders were now to be revealed as commonplace.

"I have discovered the murderer . . ." he replied.

"You, too, have discovered the murderer?" I asked; not, I must own, taking the little aside very seriously, but willing enough to be diverted by his account.

"I have discovered the murderer," he replied, "by a rope, a phrase, and by the way in which a man killed flies. It is very simple, but it has the terror and the power and the immensity of all simple things."

He paused for a moment, as though wondering whether he should tell us. Then he went on. "There was a woman murdered in a locked room, from which the only escape was by the window, and the only manner of exit from the window was by a rope. So without beginning to talk in that superstitious way of unnatural happenings, it was necessary to discover how that rope had been used. It could have been neither climbed nor used for descent, so we came to Lord Simon's explanation—that a rope may swing, and a man may swing on it. But what I think Lord Simon failed to see, was that when a rope can swing from left to right, another may swing from right to left.

"In Mrs. Thurston's room there were two windows, one which was made to open, and one, constructed without frame or hinges, which would not open. And both had stone ledges at least a foot wide. And you were all observant of the window which opened. But what about the window which did not open? It could have let in lovely things, fresh air, and moonbeams, the scent of flowers, and truth. For the truth of this matter was behind the window which did not open, waiting to be admitted.

"To escape from the room a man had to swing on a rope. But he did not swing to the right to the window of Strickland's room, but to the left, to the unopened window, for the rope to which he clung was let down not from Fallowes' room but from the box room. And there he stood on that ledge, gripping the stonework above him, while you were searching the room. He could not watch you clearly, for the window is of stained glass, but he could

GENERAL MALADY

HERBERT Hoover at Geneva, Switzerland, asked for his opinion about what ails Europe, replies:

"I have found that there are a great many diagnosticians, but none of them has a remedy. They are all agreed that something is radically wrong, but they have no cure to offer for the malady. People themselves don't know how to treat the illness. Why ask me?"

They try remedies which turn out to be nostrums. They hire doctors who prove to be quacks. Modern civilization seems to be going through a general crisis and nobody knows yet what the outcome will be.

SEEING AMERICA

THE typical American tourist in a foreign land usually visits famous churches, historic castles, a museum or two and the shops and amusement places.

What do foreign travelers want to see in America? Many of them are content with a glimpse of New York City, Niagara Falls and Washington. Some go to Hollywood, home of moving pictures.

The travel desires of the Albanian princesses who have just come to the United States are to see Mrs. Roosevelt, Yellowstone National Park and a Girl Scout meeting. These wishes come well within the range of possibility and probably will produce as good an idea of America as most Americans have of Albania.

Many Americans know little about their own country, outside the county and state they live in. With all our jaunting about in recent years, we still have much to see before we really know the great land that is ours.

ALIEN LOYALTY

A DOLF HITLER has done one deed, anyway, that normal Americans can approve unanimously. That is his order for German citizens in the United States who belong to the Nazi organization, known as the Amerika-Deutsche Volksbund, to get out of it.

This is a favor to our country. We do not want, and should not have, people here owing and openly professing loyalty to a foreign type of government that is hostile to the principles of our government and people. Such conduct is not illegal, but is in very bad taste and breeds ill-will between our people and Germany.

But what shall be said of the American citizens who belong to that same organization, wearing the German Nazi uniform, professing Nazi principles, using the Nazi salute and practicing the Nazi goose-step? Such organizations exist in various American cities.

Their conduct is in worse taste than that of the German citizens referred to. It gives the appearance of divided loyalty, or alien loyalty, and does no good to anybody.

A friend taking boxing lessons says it's just his rearmament program.

'ROUND CIRCLEVILLE . Hour by Hour

PAGES from the Diary of an Antiquated Reporter:

Out and around the ville at an early hour, meeting Bob Anderson among the first, and then Bud Harden who was collecting prizes to be distributed at the Sportsmen's dinner Wednesday evening. Pecked at the list and immediately decided to be present for that event, hoping to gather unto myself any one of a score of items I regard as necessary to my Summer peace of mind. Chatted with Bill Hamilton, who would like to make a trip to Florida, but can find no companion for the trip.

Started across Court street with Willie Morris and we were almost run down by a motorist who thought he was in a hurry. Don't remember just what the motorist said, but possibly that is just as well. Exchanged greetings with H. W. Plum and Educator Bob Terhune and then headed for the coffee shop to be practically insulted by Turney Weldon, who has one of the most infectious laughs I ever have heard. But personal remarks always are blunt at the Coffee Club, so I took Turney's jibe with a grin.

The Chamber of Commerce is lining up its program for the year and officers are seeking ideas. Here is a chance for you to uncover your pet idea. Why not outline your idea of a good project for the Chamber and send it to President Ed or Secretary Mack?

Took a short jaunt through the country and saw three farmers plowing in the rain. One of them with a walking plow, too. Later, Charlie Fullen dropped in to discuss building prospects for the Spring and then fishing. Seems to know about all the good spots within 20 miles of the ville. He is a confirmed bait fisherman. ## Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

PLANES MADE IN WICHITA

WASHINGTON — Newspaper headlines featured the news that Russian planes had made the spectacular hop for the Chinese army to bomb Japanese Formosa.

Inside word received here by the Army and Navy, however, is that most of the planes were made in Wichita, Kansas, and had just arrived in China. Some were of other American makes previously purchased by China.

The pilots were not Russian, but French, British and American, each paid 400 pounds sterling per month, or $2,000. They made the Formosa round trip without losing a plane.

Addition of the Wichita planes is the reason for the most successful air attacks upon the Japanese Army.

NOTE—Foreign aviators are reported to be paid by Madame Chiang Kai-Shek, who is the daughter of Sun Yat-sen and inherited several millions. Until recently she personally has commanded the Chinese Air Force.

JUNE ADJOURNMENT

Barring surprise legislative demands by the President, Congress will be homeward bound by June 1 at the latest.

The House could wind up its unfinished work with time to spare by May 1. But the Senate, stalled by the anti-lynching filibuster, is a month behind schedule. However, its urge to shake the dust of the Capital is just as strong as in the house.

In both chambers the boys, facing highly troubled election waters, already are champing at the bit, and some have served notice that they will depart by May 1 regardless. One of these is Senate Leader Alben Barkley, who faces the re-election fight of his life.

The Kentuckian, aided by Vice President Garner, recently made a quiet canvas of the possibility of adjourning May 1. House leaders told them they could do it provided Roosevelt sent up no new legislation. But in the Senate, the earliest estimated quitting date was May 21.

This caused acute pangs of worry to Barkley. So Senate friends advised him to turn the reins over to Senate Pat Harrison, whom he defeated for the leadership. Pat is not up for re-election and is among the few not in a hurry to go home.

NO NEW LEGISLATION

The likelihood of Roosevelt's demanding new legislation this spring is remote.

He has done this the last three regular sessions, but this year he is as anxious to get rid of Congress as it is to go home.

The one possibility for a new legislative attack is on monopolies, but inside word now is that Roosevelt has changed his mind about immediate action and will recommend a study preparatory to drafting a bill for the new Congress next January.

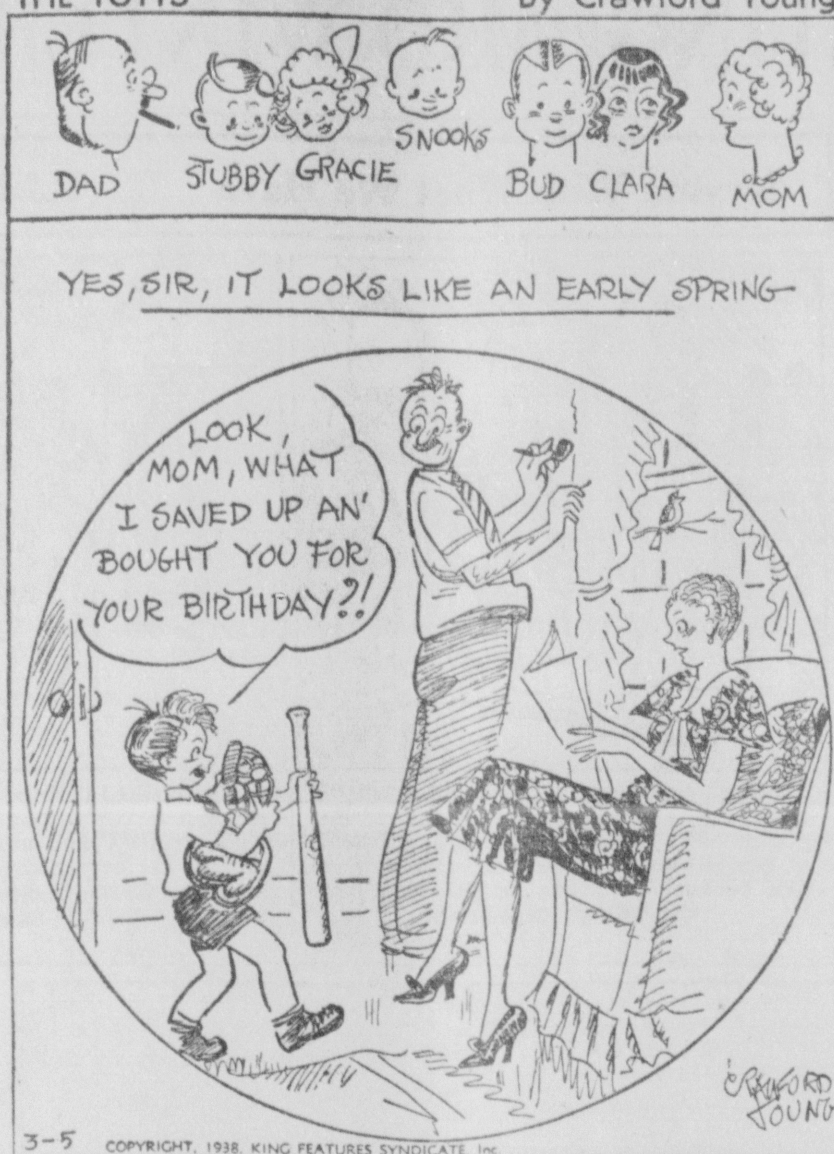

To clear its boards, the House needs only to dispose of the tax and relief bills, the big navy measure, three big appropriation bills and the long-disputed wage-hour proposal.

With the exception of the last, there will be no trouble about any of these. But the outcome of the labor bill is most uncertain. It is still tied up in committee, and the longer it hangs there the smaller its chances of passage.

There is sure to be a hot Senate fight over the tax and relief bills, but with the House holding the whip hand they are apt to be in line with White House views.

How You Should Care for the New-Born Baby

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

THE YOUNG PARENTS of the first new baby are in for a host of doubts, fears and abysmal consciousness of lack of experience.

It seems such a fragile little thing and so helpless. Just what are we to do about taking care of it? Oh! about a thousand different things.

Well, it isn't quite as fragile as it looks, and although it does need a good deal of attention it will get along most of the time on its own.

Keep it fed, keep it clean, keep it aerated and keep it rested—that is about all there is to it.

How to keep it fed we will discuss tomorrow.

As for keeping it clean, the healthy baby should be bathed every day at the same hour.

The most convenient time is about half an hour after mother's breakfast.

For the bath get:

1. Soap—pure and mild, castile.
2. Several soft towels.
3. A baby's bathtub or a dishpan or a washbowl.
4. Wash cloths—one for face, one for body.
5. Powder—in a dusting can, to prevent chafing.
6. Petroleum jelly—to use on sore parts of the skin.
7. Boric acid solution for eye wash.
8. A fine, soft hairbrush.
9. Apron for mother.
10. Cotton.
11. Pail or basket for dirty clothes.
12. Clean socks, diapers, band, etc.
13. Table covered with clean

sheet, two chairs—one for mother, one for bathtub.

14. Scissors to cut toenails.

Temperature of the bath should be lukewarm, about 98 to 100 degrees. Always put the water in the tub before undressing the baby. Always test the temperature of the water with your elbow before putting the baby in. As the baby gets older, make the bath a little cooler.

The first month a sponge bath only should be given.

The sponges bath should last about five minutes. The tub bath about seven.

Never Leave Baby in Tub

Always hold the baby while in the tub. Never leave it even if the Angel Gabriel is on the telephone. Wash the eyes first by dipping a small piece of cotton in warm boric solution (to make a proper

Dr. Clendenning will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

boric acid solution put a glassful—eight ounces—or water on to boil; then add a level teaspoonful of boric acid crystals, and continue boiling, stirring with a spoon until dissolved.)

Wash the nose by twisting a piece of cotton around a toothpick. THEN SLIP THE TOOTHPICK OFF and wash the nose by gently turning the end of the cotton around inside the nostrils.

Wash the ears gently, never pulling at them, one at a time, and dry. Wash the head, then the arms and body, with soap and water, then the legs and buttocks.

Dry gently by dabbing it with a soft, dry towel.

Dust the powder into the skin folds. Dress and brush the hair, if any.

Sleep—A healthy, new-born baby should sleep nearly all the time except when it is being nursed or bathed. During the second and third months there should be eight- to twenty hours of sleep every day.

Poems That Live

"ASK ME NO MORE"
From "The Princess"

Ask me no more: the moon may draw the sea;
The cloud may stoop from heaven, and take the shape,
With fold to fold, of mountain or of cape;
But O too fond, when have I answered thee?
Ask me no more.

Ask me no more: what answer shall I give?
I love not hollow cheek or faded eye;

Yet, O my friend, I will not have thee die!

Ask me no more, lest I should bid thee live;

As me no more.

Ask me no more: thy fate and mine are sealed;
I sterve against the stream and all in vain;

Let the great river take me to the main.

No more, dear love, for at a touch I yield;

Ask me no more.

"To escape from the room a man had to swing on a rope. But he did not swing to the right to the window of Strickland's room, but to the left, to the unopened window, for the rope to which he clung was let down not from Fellowes' room but from the box-room. And there he stood on that ledge, gripping the stonework above him, while you were searching the room. He could not watch you clearly, for the window is of stained glass, but he could see when you had gone. And then he returned. For another rope was hung from the window of the apple room, on which he could swing back to the window which did open. It was simple to discover this. One only had to remember that no pendulum goes only one way, that an action has its reaction, that black, in fact, is opposed to white.

"But who had done it? Whoever had swung on the ropes had had an accomplice who hung them. Or should one say that whoever had hung the ropes had had an accomplice who swung on them? At all events there were two people concerned.

"And while we sat at lunch on Friday a spider appeared on the table. The butler came into the room and picked it up carefully in his fingers. I was watching and I thought that the man who shrank from killing, an insect would probably hesitate to kill an employer. But suddenly I saw a very horrible thing. The butler had not shrank from killing the spider because he loved spiders but because he hated flies. He took the creature and carefully set it on the window-ledge where several sleepy flies were crawling. And he turned away regretfully as though he wanted to wait and watch the results. It was appalling, but like many appalling things it showed the truth. The man who had set a spider to kill a fly had set a man to kill a woman.

"But what man? It had been a weak man who was persuaded into it, a guilty man who was blackmailed into it, or a devil to whom it had to be no more than suggested. It could have been a man who came to the door of the room or was present at the search. And that afternoon I set off for the village church. At first I thought that I should have to look elsewhere, for Mr. Rider was neither a weak, nor a guilty, nor a bad man. But when he showed me a fine piscina in the chancel, his church and referred to it as washbasin, I perceived the terrible truth. He was not himself a devil, he was possessed of devil, he was insane. And this man was the instrument which the real murderer had chosen.

Garden Club Conducts An Interesting Session

Display of Books Adds to Fine Evening

An interesting feature of the meeting of the Pickaway County Garden club was a garden book display arranged for the pleasure of the club by Miss Mary Wilder and Miss Wilmina Phebus, city librarians, including books obtainable in our local library, and many new books loaned through the courtesy of Mrs. L. S. Teeters, showing what is new in all phases of gardening.

The March meeting was held in the Library Trustees' room of Memorial Hall, Friday evening, and Mrs. F. K. Blair, club president, presided at the business session. Minutes of the previous meeting and roll call being read by Mrs. Richard Jones, secretary.

During the business hour, the committee on constitution and by-laws with Mrs. W. E. Caskey in charge, submitted the revised document, which was read by Mrs. Blanche Mutschman. Various sections and articles were discussed and will be voted on at the next regular meeting.

A report from the civic project committee brought various suggestions. The club voted to give $10 to the Circleville Public Library for the purchase of garden books, the selections being made by the club members from the new books on display.

Other plans for civic beautification are being considered. A "Flower Day" with distribution of flowers to schools, hospitals and shut-ins is being planned.

The evening's program opened with a paper by Mrs. Ella Hornbeck entitled, "Rock Garden Hints". Mrs. Hornbeck, the possessor of one of the city's most beautiful gardens, was well qualified to divulge in the information gained through her experience with her subject.

She told of the early existence of rock gardens in Alpine sections of Europe and of the care given the rock plants by monks in the monasteries.

Localizing her topic, she stated that it takes at least two years before a rock garden is at its best. Forms of gardens differ to suit the taste of individuals. A natural-looking effect is most pleasing. A pool, "The Eyes of the Garden", should be used to mirror the beauty of the foliage, and the surroundings. Mrs. Hornbeck stated that at one time only large estates boasted a pool and rock garden. Now lovely small ones can be constructed at little expense. Plants should be chosen to assure a succession of bloom through the season.

The next number on the program was a paper compiled by Mrs. T. O. Gilliland, entitled, "Crazy Quilt Gardens", read by Mrs. Blanche Mutschman, in the absence of Mrs. Gilliland who is sojourning in Florida. She dealt with the enjoyment a garden brings to the gardener; the peace and contentment one feels while working; the compensation received when one views the wealth of beauty in the everchanging parade of color, throughout the Summer months. To shorten a garden space, yellow flowers should predominate, to lend space, blue flowers should be planted in the background, were some of the facts included in Mrs. Gilliland's paper. Red in the garden acts as an exclamation point as all space begins and ends with the red. Green is a neutralizer, and for beauty at night, white flowers should be planted in the garden.

A garden clinic, with questions and answers under the direction of Mrs. Blair was enjoyed, after which a letter from Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Hunter, club members who are in Florida, was read.

A large black bowl filled with yellow jonquils added a note of Spring to the occasion and various members reported having Spring flowers in bloom. The April meeting, to be held

TEMPTING MENUS

Lenten Dishes

With the Lenten season comes economical dishes made without meat. We include fish, casserole dishes of vegetables, cheese, eggs, and the spaghetti and macaroni family in our observation of "less-meat" days. Suggestions for new dishes are usually welcome so here's our contribution to the variety available.

Salmon in Spinach Ring

- 1 1/2 C. bread crumbs
- 1/2 C. milk
- 1 tsp. scraped onion
- 1 Tbsp. melted butter
- 2 eggs, separated
- 5 C. cooked spinach (4 lbs.)
- 2 Tbsp. lemon juice
- 4 C. canned salmon

These quantities serve 8. Soak bread crumbs in milk, stir until smooth. Add onion, butter, and egg yolks, add finely chopped spinach seasoned with lemon juice, salt and pepper. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Turn into a well-buttered 10-inch ring mold. Set mold on a folded cloth in a pan containing an inch of hot water and bake slowly (at 350 degrees) for 40 minutes. Meanwhile flake the salmon and heat it in its own juice in a double boiler. Make Hollandaise sauce. At serving loosen edges of mold and turn onto hot serving plate. Fill center with hot salmon (drained) and serve with Hollandaise sauce.

A tasty treat to accompany a meal which otherwise might be dull, is French fried onions. They're especially good with the Lenten "Salmon-burgers." Here's how to make them:

- Large onions
- 1 egg yolk
- 1/2 C. milk
- 1/2 C. sifted flour
- Salt and pepper

Peel and cut onions into 1/4-inch slices. Separate into rings and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Beat egg yolk, add milk and stir into the flour, then beat until smooth. Dip onions into this batter and fry in deep hot fat (350 degrees) until brown. Place in a wire basket or on paper to drain for just a few minutes before serving. Serve as quickly as possible.

Salmon-"Burgers"

- 2 C. canned salmon
- 1/4 C. coarse cracker crumbs
- 1 egg, slightly beaten
- 1 small onion
- 2 Tbsp. butter
- 3 large onions

Drain and flake salmon, mix with cracker crumbs and egg. Mince the onion and fry lightly in salt butter, add to salmon mixture and season to taste. Shape into 6 thin cakes and brown quickly in the remaining butter. Split and toast the buns, and place a hot salmon cake on each half. Serves six.

Meatless Loaf

- 1 C. cooked rice
- 1 egg
- 2 Tbsp. chopped onion
- 1/2 C. milk
- 1 C. crushed peanuts
- 1 C. cottage cheese
- 1 Tbsp. fat
- 1/2 tsp. pepper

Combine the ingredients. Bake in a loaf pan at 350 degrees for 30 minutes. Serves six.

TEST IS MADE WITH LIQUID AIR

On Wednesday, March 2, one of the most educational programs of the year was given in assembly at 8:30. This was a liquid air demonstration by Elliott James who was for two years at the Century of Progress. His demonstrations consisted of startling experiments and simple explanations.

Mr. James illustrated the practical uses of liquid air and showed the peculiar qualities of various substances when subjected to its freezing contact.

He called attention to the fact that liquid air exists in normal conditions at a temperature of about 312 degrees below zero; and using an interesting spread of laboratory equipment, he placed kerosene oil in a tube and solidified it so that it could be used as a candle. Again, with liquid air, mercury was frozen on the end of a handle and was used as a hammer to drive nails. A piece of cloth, when thus treated, became so brittle that it could be broken up into chips. An ordinary rubber ball, when thrown to the floor, broke like glass.

He demonstrated the low boiling point of liquid air very clearly when a small quantity of it, placed in a tea-kettle on a cake of ice boiled violently. A liquid air engine ran as a result of the vapor produced when some of the liquid air evaporated rapidly from no outside application of heat other than the ordinary room temperature.

The behavior of molecules at this exceedingly low temperature was illustrated by Mr. James when he cooled a bell made of pure lead, until it rang as clearly as a bell of steel.

He stated that you should never mix liquid air with oil because it causes an explosion when mixed. Frequently, explosions in garages are the result of carelessness in handling gaseous oxygen and oil.

In the course of his demonstrations, Mr. James called attention to the oxygen plant at Mobile, Alabama. He also said that Ohio has more of these plants than any other state. These plants are erected for the purpose of producing nitrogen, oxygen, neon and other elements found in liquid air. He said that liquid air could be bought at these plants for educational programs at $6.00 a gallon.

A small charge was made for those attending the assembly to defray the expenses of the chemist.

EDITORIAL

Everything we do that has its source in the heart carries in it something of our personality, whether it be a masterpiece or some common task. We would be much surprised if we could look ahead and see the things of our doing that will survive. The thing that determines our opinion of folk we have known is in most cases more apparently trivial incident that they quickly forgot. It was, however, kindness or a worthy deed that revealed the heart of the one who did it.

We often long for wealth or power so that we could do something great for humanity, but it is the little every day acts of kindly service to those about us that will stamp on eternity what we do. It may be but a cup of cold water to a thirsty soul or a crust of bread to a hungry mortal which we gave with no hope or prospect of any reward. But very few can ever attain what we call wealth or worldly honors.

One of the most beautiful flowers I ever saw grew out of an ash heap. It appeared more beautiful, though it was not, because it had grown up in this unlovely spot—in such an ugly environment. The contrast made it stand out.

I think everyone finds a beauty of character and sincerity among plain, common folk that appeal to him. Also there exists a simplicity among those folk called great.

Therefore let us not sit idly by neglecting the opportunities to do the small act of kindness while we wait for the chance to perform the Herculean task. Rather let us each day so conduct ourselves in small matters as to increase the amount of human happiness in the world. In this way we can best prepare ourselves for the greater tasks when and if we have the opportunity to meet them.

ASSEMBLY HEARS TALK BY HARRIS

Thursday F. R. Harris, superintendent of Greenfield schools, spoke to the high school on his recent trip around the world.

Having traveled for many years, Mr. Harris completed 20,000 miles on commercial airlines this Summer. One airline offered the opinion that he was the only paying passenger to completely encircle the globe.

Mr. Harris started from Port Columbus early one morning last Summer, arriving in Los Angeles in the evening, having traveled 2,700 miles in one day. He then went to San Francisco and there took the Pan American clipper ship across the Pacific Ocean, stopping at Honolulu, Midway, Wake, and Guam. At midway the goony birds proved highly amusing, exhibiting their famous goony dance. The goony birds, a rather extinct species of the albatross, resemble geese in appearance and awkwardness, but when in flight they are extremely graceful.

From Guam Mr. Harris went to Manila on across the China Sea to Hong Kong. In telling this he was reminded of the same trip which he took in 1932 in the midst of a typhoon. He stayed ten days in South China and then went on to Canton, a town of over 1,000,000 Chinese.

Having returned from Canton, on the Fourth of July, Mr. Harris boarded an Imperial airplane to Malaya and from there to Bangkok, Siam, the kingdom of the sacred white elephants. Mr. Harris said in passing that the elephant was far from being white but rather a very dirty pink.

His next step was Rangoon, Burma, and then across the Bay of Bengal to Calcutta, India. There he saw one of the few blood sacrifices still offered today.

After spending a night on the Arabian desert with the temperature 120 degrees at midnight, Mr. Harris was decidedly pleased to get to the soft, green countries around the Mediterranean. He spent several days in Baghdad, Palestine, and Jerusalem and then crossed to Athens and from there across the Adriatic Sea into Italy.

Mr. Harris crossed the Adriatic in the Signis, the ship that recently was wrecked on a similar flight. Completing his journey, Mr. Harris quickly took in Marseilles, Lyons, and Paris and then sailed for New York. He had book passage on the Hindenburg, but it had exploded on the trip prior to the one he intended taking.

Mr. Harris started his traveling as a young boy, working his way abroad and all over Europe. An estimate of the length of his travels is 500,000 miles with about 100,000 of them in the air.

Two years ago the students of Circleville high school had the pleasure of hearing Mr. Harris' talk on South America, "Flying Down the Andes."

"Hobbies" Subject Of High School Boys' Speeches

Thursday evening eight high school boys participated in a hobby program given before the Lutheran Brotherhood's meeting in the Lutheran parish house.

Mr. George Griffith, chairman of the program committee, introduced the boys who talked on their respective hobbies.

Robert Trump spoke on his collection of Indian relics; Philip Moore told of his marionettes. Of interest was the speech of Lawrence Goeller on "Model T Fords".

The subject of Jim Moffitt's talk was aviation while Frank Beck told of his interest in the field of Art. George Curtin professed his interest in gadgets. A discussion on telepathy by Jack Lemon and John Kuhn completed the program.

Display of Books Adds to Fine Evening

An interesting feature of the meeting of the Pickaway County Garden club was a garden book display arranged for the pleasure of the club by Miss Mary Wilder and Miss Wilma Phebus, city librarians, including books obtainable in our local library, and many new books loaned through the courtesy of Mrs. L. S. Teeters, showing what is new in all phases of gardening.

The March meeting was held in the Library Trustees' room of Memorial Hall, Friday evening, and Mrs. F. K. Blair, club president, presided at the business session. Minutes of the previous meeting and roll call being read by Mrs. Richard Jones, secretary.

During the business hour, the committee on constitution and by-laws with Mrs. W. E. Caskey in charge, submitted the revised document, which was read by Mrs. Blanche Mutschman. Various sections and articles were discussed and will be voted on at the next regular meeting.

A report from the civic project committee brought various suggestions. The club voted to give $10 to the Circleville Public Library for the purchase of garden books, the selections being made by the club members from the new books on display.

Other plans for civic beautification are being considered. A "Flower Day" with distribution of flowers to schools, hospitals and shut-ins is being planned.

The evening's program opened with a paper by Mrs. Ella Hornbeck entitled, "Rock Garden Hints". Mrs. Hornbeck, the possessor of one of the city's most beautiful gardens, was well qualified to divulge in the information gained through her experience with her subject.

She told of the early existence of rock gardens in Alpine sections of Europe and of the care given the rock plants by monks in the monasteries.

Localizing her topic, she stated that it takes at least two years before a rock garden is at its best. Forms of gardens differ to suit the taste of individuals. A natural-looking effect is most pleasing. A pool, "The Eyes of the Garden", should be used to mirror the beauty of the foliage, and the surroundings. Mrs. Hornbeck stated that at one time only large estates boasted a pool and rock garden. Now lovely small ones can be constructed at little expense. Plants should be chosen to assure a succession of bloom through the season.

The next number on the program was a paper compiled by Mrs. T. O. Gilliland, entitled, "Crazy Quilt Gardens", read by Mrs. Blanche Mutschman, in the absence of Mrs. Gilliland who is sojourning in Florida. She dealt with the enjoyment a garden brings to the gardener; the peace and contentment one feels while working; the compensation received when one views the wealth of beauty in the everchanging parade of color, throughout the Summer months. To shorten a garden space, yellow flowers should predominate, to lend space, blue flowers should be planted in the background, were some of the facts included in Mrs. Gilliland's paper. Red in the garden acts as an exclamation point as all space begins and ends with the red. Green is a neutralizer, and for beauty at night, white flowers should be planted in the garden.

A garden clinic, with questions and answers under the direction of Mrs. Blair was enjoyed, after which a letter from Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Hunter, club members who are in Florida, was read.

A large black bowl filled with yellow jonquils added a note of Spring to the occasion and various members reported having Spring flowers in bloom.

Wayne P.-T. A.

The March meeting of Wayne township Parent-Teacher association was held Friday evening at Wayne school with a splendid attendance.

In the absence of the president, George Mallett, principal of the school, directed the meeting which opened with group singing. Reports of the secretary and treasurer were read. During the business hour it was decided to sponsor a card party, Friday, March 18 at the school. After the business of the society was closed, the meeting was turned over to Mrs. Dora Hamilton, director of music for the school, who presented the following program: music by several of the grade school pupils; piano solo, Donna Belle Speakman; song by a group of first grade pupils; piano solo, Betty Barkenhau; piano solo, Kenneth Rittinger and Mrs. Hamilton; songs, first grade pupils; piano solo, "Distant Bells," Wanda Grabill; duet, "Belles of Avalon," Elizabeth Downing and Beatrice Parks; solo, "Lullaby," Virginia Streitenberger; piano solo, Mary Rittinger; piano duet, Wanda Grabill and Betty Barkenhau.

Karl Herrmann next gave a short talk on his trip to Europe, which he had taken with his father last Summer. Mrs. Roy Rittinger then discussed a poem, "To a Waterfowl," written by William Cullen Bryant, telling interesting details of the writing of the poem and of the inspiration of the poet. She then recited it. Miss Eleanor McAbee concluded the program with a group of selections of popular numbers and one classical, "From Norway."

Refreshments were served by the hospitality committee which included Percy May, chairman, Sherman Campbell, Walter Metzger, Paul Counts and Harry Culp. The program for the evening was arranged by Mrs. Hamilton, chairman, assisted by Mrs. Harry Culp, Mrs. Clarence McAbee, Roy Rittinger and Clarence Dean.

Lenten Dishes

With the Lenten season comes economical dishes made without meat. We include fish, casserole dishes of vegetables, cheese, eggs, and the spaghetti and macaroni family in our observation of "less-meat" days. Suggestions for new dishes are usually welcome so here's our contribution to the variety available.

Salmon in Spinach Ring

- 1 1/2 C. bread crumbs
- 1/2 C. milk
- 1 tsp. scraped onion
- 1 Tbsp. melted butter
- 2 eggs, separated
- 2 C. cooked spinach (4 lbs.)
- 1 Tbsp. lemon juice
- 4 C. canned salmon

These quantities serve 8. Soak bread crumbs in milk, stir until smooth. Add onion, butter, and egg yolks, add finely chopped spinach seasoned with lemon juice, salt and pepper. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Turn into a well-buttered 10-inch ring mold. Set mold on a folded cloth in a pan containing an inch of hot water and bake slowly (at 350 degrees) for 40 minutes. Meanwhile flake the salmon and heat it in its own juice in a double boiler. Make Hollandaise sauce. At serving, loosen edges of mold and turn onto hot serving plate. Fill center with hot salmon (drained) and serve with Hollandaise sauce.

A tasty treat to accompany a meal which otherwise might be dull, is French fried onions. They're especially good with the Lenten "Salmon-burgers." Here's how to make them:

- Large onions
- 1 egg yolk
- 1/2 C. milk
- 1/2 C. sifted flour
- Salt and pepper

Peel and cut onions into 1/4-inch slices. Separate into rings and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Beat egg yolk, add milk and stir into the flour, then beat until smooth. Dip onions into this batter and fry in deep hot fat (395 degrees) until brown. Place in a wire basket or on paper to drain for just a few minutes before serving. Serve as quickly as possible.

Salmon-Burgers

- 2 C. canned salmon
- 1/2 C. coarse cracker crumbs
- 1 egg, slightly beaten
- 1 small onion
- 2 Tbsp. butter
- 3 large pouns

Drain and flake salmon, mix with cracker crumbs and egg. Mince the onion and fry lightly in salt; the butter; add to salmon mixture and season to taste. Shape into 6 thin cakes and brown quickly in the remaining butter. Split and toast the buns, and place a hot salmon cake on each half. Serves six.

Meatless Leaf

- 1 C. cooked rice
- 1 egg
- 1 Tbsp. chopped onion
- 1 Tbsp. salt
- 1 C. crushed peanuts
- 1 C. cottage cheese
- 1 Tbsp. fat
- 1/2 Tbsp. pepper

Combine the ingredients. Bake in a loaf pan at 350 degrees for 30 minutes. Serves six.

TEST IS MADE WITH LIQUID AIR

On Wednesday, March 2, one of the most educational programs of the year was given in assembly at 8:30. This was a liquid air demonstration by Elliott James who was for two years at the Century of Progress. His demonstrations consisted of startling experiments and simple explanations.

Mr. James illustrated the practical uses of liquid air and showed the peculiar qualities of various substances when subjected to its freezing contact.

He called attention to the fact that liquid air exists in normal conditions at a temperature of about 312 degrees below zero; and using an interesting spread of laboratory equipment, he placed kerosene oil in a tube and solidified it so that it could be used as a candle. Again, with liquid air, mercury was frozen on the end of a handle and was used as a hammer to drive nails. A piece of cloth, when thrown to the floor, broke like glass.

He demonstrated the low boiling point of liquid air very clearly when a small quantity of it, placed in a tea-kettle on a cake of ice boiled violently. A liquid air engine ran as a result of the vapor produced when some of the liquid air evaporated rapidly from no outside application of heat other than the ordinary room temperature.

The behavior of molecules at this exceedingly low temperature was illustrated by Mr. James when he cooled a bell made of pure lead, until it rang as clearly as a bell of steel.

He stated that you should never mix liquid air with oil because it causes an explosion when mixed. Frequently, explosions in garages are the result of carelessness in handling gaseous oxygen and oil.

In the course of his demonstrations, Mr. James called attention to the oxygen plant at Mobile, Alabama. He also said that Ohio has more of these plants than any other state. These plants are erected for the purpose of producing nitrogen, oxygen, neon and other elements found in liquid air. He said that liquid air could be bought at these plants for educational programs at $6.00 a gallon.

A small charge was made for those attending the assembly to defray the expenses of the chemist.

EDITORIAL

Everything we do that has its source in the heart carries in it something of our personality, whether it be a masterpiece or some common task. We would be much surprised if we could look ahead and see the things of our doing that will survive. The thing that determines our opinion of folk we have known is in most cases some apparently trivial incident that they quickly forgot. It was, however, kindness or a worthy deed that revealed the heart of the one who did it.

We often long for wealth or power so that we could do something great for humanity, but it is the little every day acts of kindness service to those about us that will stamp on eternity what we do. It may be but a cup of cold water to a thirsty soul or a crust of bread to a hungry mortal which we gave with no hope or prospect of any reward. But very few can ever attain what we call wealth or worldly honors.

One of the most beautiful flowers I ever saw grew out of an ash heap. It appeared more beautiful, though it was not, because it had grown up in this unlovely spot—in such an ugly environment. The contrast made it stand out.

I think everyone finds a beauty of character and sincerity among plain, common folk that appeal to him. Also there exists a simplicity among those folk called great.

Therefore let us not sit idly by neglecting the opportunities to do the small act of kindness while we wait for the chance to perform the Herculean task. Rather let us each day so conduct ourselves in small matters as to increase the amount of human happiness in the world. In this way we can best prepare ourselves for the greater tasks when and if we have the opportunity to meet them.

ASSEMBLY HEARS TALK BY HARRIS

Thursday F. R. Harris, superintendent of Greenfield schools, spoke to the high school on his recent trip around the world.

Having traveled for many years, Mr. Harris completed 20,000 miles on commercial airlines this Summer. One airline offered the opinion that he was the only paying passenger to completely encircle the globe.

Mr. Harris started from Port Columbus early one morning last Summer, arriving in Los Angeles in the evening, having traveled 2,700 miles in one day. He then went to San Francisco and there took the Pan American clipper ship across the Pacific Ocean, stopping at Honolulu, Midway, Wake, and Guam. At midway the goony birds proved highly amusing, exhibiting their famous goony dance. The goony birds, a rather extinct species of the albatross, resemble geese in appearance and awkwardness, but when in flight they are extremely graceful.

From Guam Mr. Harris went to Manila on across the China Sea to Hong Kong. In telling this he was reminded of the same trip which he took in 1932 in the midst of a typhoon. He stayed ten days in South China and then went on to Canton, a town of over 1,000,000 Chinese.

Having returned from Canton, on the Fourth of July, Mr. Harris boarded an Imperial airplane to Malaya and from there to Bangkok, Siam, the kingdom of the sacred white elephants. Mr. Harris said in passing that the elephant was far from being white but rather a very dirty pink.

His next stop was Rangoon, Burma, and then across the Bay of Bengal to Calcutta, India. There he saw one of the few blood sacrifices still offered today.

After spending a night on the Arabian desert with the temperature 120 degrees at midnight, Mr. Harris was decidedly pleased to get to the soft, green countries around the Mediterranean. He spent several days in Bagdad, Palestine, and Jerusalem and then crossed to Athens and from there across the Adriatic Sea into Italy. Mr. Harris crossed the Adriatic in the Signis, the ship that recently was wrecked on a similar flight.

Completing his journey, Mr. Harris quickly took in Marseilles, Lyons, and Paris and then sailed for New York. He had book passage

THE TRUMP COU

It is not necessary to lead a trump through the opponent's guarded trump honor toward your own tenace in order to capture him. If you are able to time the play of the hand so that, toward the close, you lead some other suit through him, in which you can over-ruff if he ruffs, you obtain the same result. When that timing is obtained by using up some of your own trumps for ruffing, so that you will shorten your own holding and not be caught with the late lead in the wrong hand, you are using a trump coup. And if the cards you ruffed to shorten your trumps happen to be winning high cards, then the play is called a "grand coup".

His ambitions were realized by fine play, whereas the others, having bid only six, gave up one trump trick and claimed the rest. The bidder of seven proceeded to trump the lead of the diamond K with the spade 2. He then led a heart to the J and finessed the spade 10. Now he laid down the spade A, and East's Q-9 holding was disclosed. His next move was to lead to the heart Q, and ruff a diamond. Followed the club K, overtaken with the A and another diamond ruff. Next came the club 10 to the Q. When the club J was led, it did not matter whether East ruffed or discarded, for the declarer had the remainder of the tricks in either event.

Change the water twice when laundering badly soiled articles such as overalls, rugs and play suits, whether you are doing the washing by hand or in a machine.

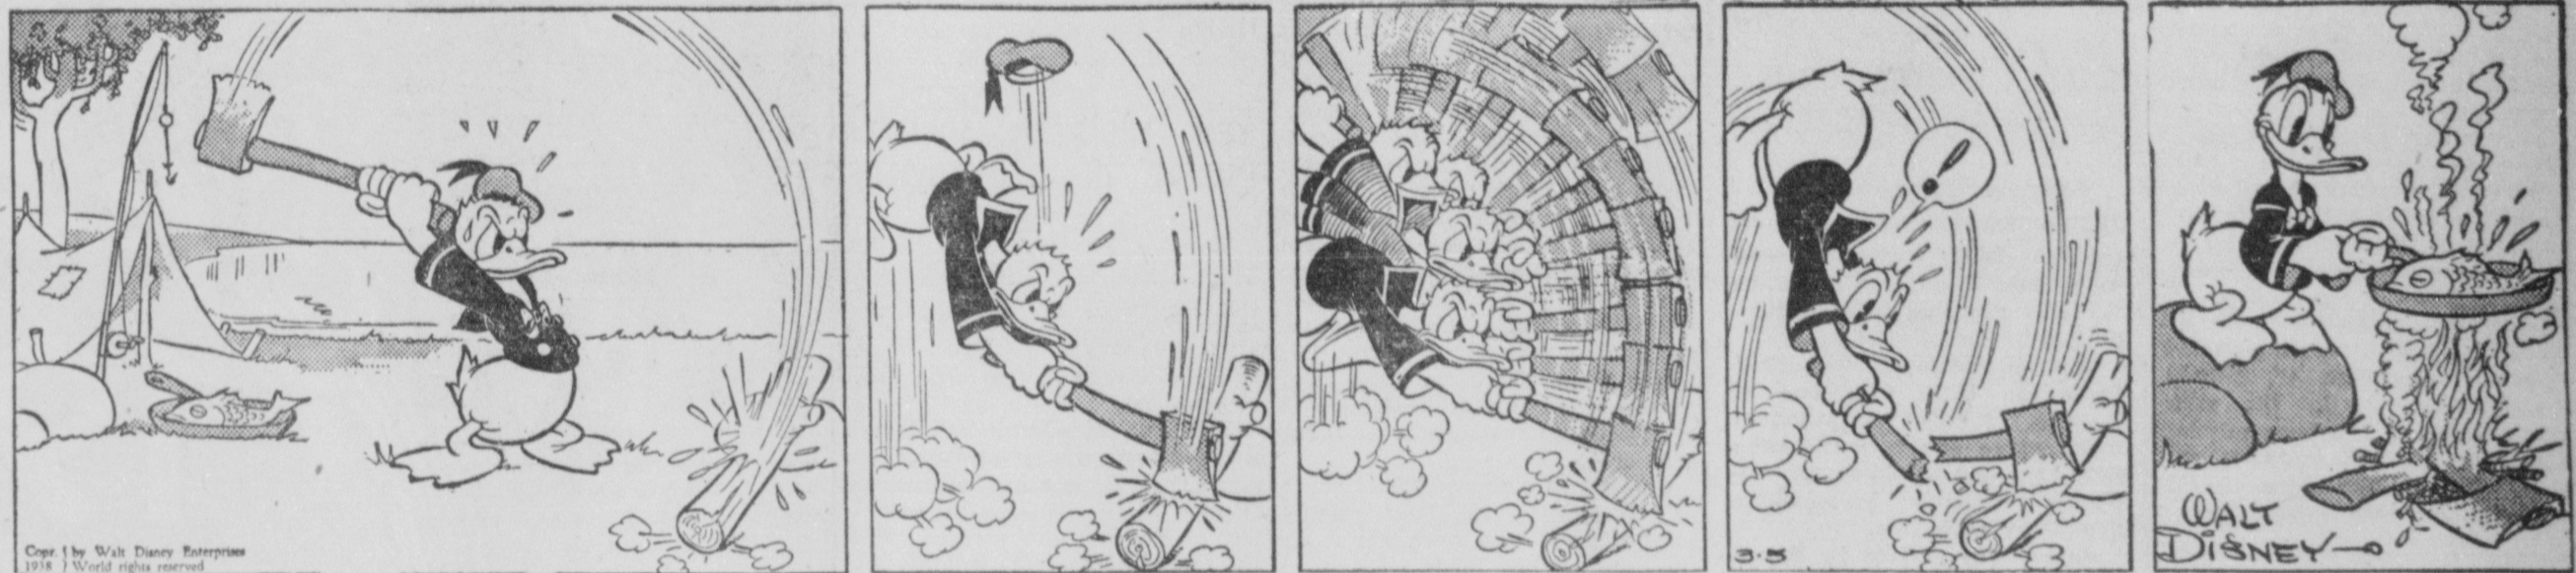

If you are suddenly called away when you are doing the family laundry with a washing machine, better turn the machine off.

SALE OF BICYCLE LICENSE TAGS SCHEDULED TO OPEN IN CITY NEXT WEEK

1,000 PLATES ORDERED FOR LOCAL YOUTHS

Vehicles Must Be Listed With Police Officers By April 1

Tags for bicycles are expected to go on sale in Circleville next week.

Karl J. Herrmann, safety director, said Saturday that the shipment of 1,000 tags, ordered from a Columbus firm, is expected to arrive Tuesday or Wednesday. They will be placed on sale as soon as received.

The tags will be issued at the police department. Registration fee is 25 cents. For registration of a change in ownership the fee is 10 cents. A card file will be kept on the bicycles.

All bicycles must be registered before April 1. The tag sale was scheduled to start March 1, but was delayed when some difficulty was experienced in obtaining the tags. The tags cost 12 cents each and have a metal band for clamping on the bicycle. They are shaped like an "8" for 1938, and carry a serial number and the name of the city and state.

Since a rush on tags is expected as soon as they are placed on sale, some extra workers may be employed to assist the police department in the sale.

When You are ROLLING ALONG Think About ROLLING OVER!

At 25 miles an hour the energy in your car will roll over ONCE. You can take this. At 50 it has developed six times the energy—enough to roll over FOUR TIMES. You would be lucky to come out of this one alive.

AND At 75, it has developed nine times the energy, enough to roll over Nine times. Of course it would probably hit a tree or culvert long before its Ninth Somersault and use the rest of its energy ripping the car and its occupants to PIECES. Make the arrangement for the cost of Your accident before it happens. See—

Miss Garbo arrived by limousine. Stokowski did not accompany her. Besides the chauffeur and Miss Garbo there was a big police dog in the car.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., March 5 — (UP) — From out of the apparently unspotted past of a pretty, 19-year-old choir singer police today sought a clue to her "motiveless" murder.

Authorities admitted they were "without a clue" to the identity of the slayer who hammered the girl to death in a downtown office building at mid-day.

The girl was Mina Dekker, a stenographer and choir singer in the Fifth Reformed church where her father is caretaker. Her battered body was found in the stockroom of the office where she was employed. Dr. Simeon Le Roy, Kent county coroner, said her skull was fractured in five places, probably by a hammer.

When You are ROLLING ALONG Think About ROLLING OVER!

At 25 miles an hour the energy in your car will roll over ONCE. You can take this. At 50 it has developed six times the energy—enough to roll over FOUR TIMES. You would be lucky to come out of this one alive.

AND At 75, it has developed nine times the energy, enough to roll over Nine times. Of course it would probably hit a tree or culvert long before its Ninth Somersault and use the rest of its energy ripping the car and its occupants to PIECES. Make the arrangement for the cost of Your accident before it happens. See—

NAPLES CROWD ALMOST MOBS FAMED ACTRESS

NAPLES, Italy, March 2—(UP)—Greta Garbo was almost mobbed today when excited movie fans discovered her while she was shopping in a fashionable store on Martiri square.

She slipped away unnoticed from the Villa Cimbrone at Ravello, 23 miles southwest of here, where she is vacationing with Leopold Stokowski, conductor of the Philadelphia symphony orchestra.

Miss Garbo arrived by limousine. Stokowski did not accompany her. Besides the chauffeur and Miss Garbo there was a big police dog in the car.

While she was trying on a gold lame gown, word spread that she was in Naples and crowds gathered rapidly.

WELL, I'LL TELL YOU—

BY BOB BURNS

In almost every paper you read where some reporter has interviewed a Senator about his "foreign policy," the Senator said he wasn't ready to disclose it. I'm beginnin' to think some of these Senators haven't got any "foreign policy."

It's like the time somebody noticed my Aunt Peachy Simms was looking bad and they said they believed Aunt Peachy was nursing a secret sorrow. Grandpa said "No, you're wrong—if Peachy did have a secret sorrow, she woulda told the whole town about it!"

ed amount of supplies if vitally needed. We will return in one hour for instructions. Use a strip of white cloth to form letters, using the following code: A means no help required, come back tomorrow; B means food for ten persons is required; C means medical aid is required; D means no casualties; E followed by a number indicates the number of casualties in that spot.

The fliers had searched 500 square miles already, and Morgan had 35 planes available in the event of a crisis.

There still was one "blind spot" in the picture—the Barstow-Victorville area. One telegram came through, saying three were dead and 30 missing there. Since then there was no word.

Camp Baldy, a mountain resort, also was hard hit. Between 200 dead 300 persons were stranded there with food for only three more days. Debris was reported to be piled 40 feet high in that section and the flood waters knocked out a casino, built of heavy stone, in four hours. Wooden cabins were splintered and swept away by the scores. Trees six inches thick were snapped off and sent swirling downstream.

Rehabilitation had begun in Los Angeles. Power was restored throughout the city today. Some of the eastern parts of the city had been without electrical service for days.

Railroad companies planned to send trains into Los Angeles today from San Francisco. Telegraph communication was reopened to the east and the airlines were sending planes in and out of the city.

But engineers said it would take a year to remove all the scars of the flood. Twenty-five bridges must be rebuilt in this area.

At San Bernardino, 250 homes had been swept away, 200 were filled nearly to the ceilings with muddy water. Streets were littered with smashed automobiles and driftwood. Numerous persons, some struggling and others already dead, were seen in the maelstrom of waters which reached a depth of nine feet in some of the streets. The sheriff's office there reported that 34 members of the Cucamonga CCC camp were missing. The camp was destroyed. More than 100 CCC youths escaped.

A." and had proposed a congressional investigation to enable Chairman Morgan to "throw dirt on the T. V. A."

MURDER OF GRAND RAPIDS SINGER PUZZLES POLICE

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., March 5 — (UP) — From out of the apparently unspotted past of a pretty, 19-year-old choir singer police today sought a clue to her " motiveless" murder.

Authorities admitted they were "without a clue" to the identity of the slayer who hammered the girl to death in a downtown office building at mid-day.

The girl was Mina Dekker, a stenographer and choir singer in the Fifth Reformed church where her father is caretaker. Her battered body was found in the stockroom of the office where she was employed. Dr. Simeon Le Roy, Kent county coroner, said her skull was fractured in five places, probably by a hammer.
